Reasons for Allowance

3. The following is the examiner's reasons for allowance of claims 31-50:

The present invention is directed to a method and computer readable medium instructions for characterizing colors for reproduction between a first device and a second device. Independent claims 31 and 44 identifies the distinct feature "normalizing the first tristimulus values indicative of a color of the first device using local black point values and transforming the normalized first tristimulus to obtain color values indicative of modified cone response of the human eye". The closest prior art to Fairchild Mark (Visual Evaluation and Evolution of the RLAB Color Space, Color Science Laboratory, Center for Imaging Science Rochester Institute of Technology, Rochester, New York, 1994) discloses characterizing colors for reproduction between a first device and a second device, normalizing the first tristimulus values, chromatically adapting the color values and transforming the adapted color values to obtain second tristimulus values but fail to anticipate or render the above limitations obvious.
